It's time to practice our names! This craft is great practice for letter recognition, and fine motor skills. It also allows the child to be creative and take ownership of their name and artwork.

Things you will need:

- Construction Paper
- Scissors
- Crayons
- Glue

What to Do:

Step 1: Using bright color construction paper, help your child cut them into small squares.

Step 2: Take a black piece of construction paper and using a white crayon write your child's name (have your child spell their name with you, write down the letters as they tell you).

Step 3: Have your child trace their name by glueing down the paper squares in the shapes of the letters.
